From the Old Woman's Magazine.

The Midwife's Politics: Or, Goſſip's Chronicle of the Affairs of Europe.

PORTUGAL.

THE Title of Moſt Faithful, as now applied to the King of Portugal, is a Diſtinction ſo novel in the Political Hiſtory of Europe, that ſome of my Readers may poſſibly not be acquainted with the Reaſon of it. I muſt inform theſe, that about a Year before I began to oblige the World with my Lucubrations, his late Portugueze Majeſty, a moſt dutiful and affectionate Son, to his good old Mother the Church of Rome, having beſtowed upon that venerable Lady ſome very coſtly Preſents of Plate and Jewels, was obliged, in return, by the Univerſal Diſpenſer of the Church's Favours, his Holineſs the Pope, with theſe two additional Words to his other Titles, as a Compenſation more than ſufficient for all his Piety. And ſurely, the Spiritual Donations of the Church, tho' conſiſting of Air only, are of more Value than all the ſolid glittering Trifles, which ſecular Princes have to give! This ſeems, at leaſt, to have been the Opinion of John V. King of Portugal, whom I had conſidered, for ſome Years before his Death, as worthy to be the Member of a Society, in which I myſelf might ſit as Preſident.

But as Henry VIII. King of England, had not long received from the ſame Authority the Title of Defender of the Faith (which his Succeſſors ſtill make Uſe of) before he turned Rebel to that very Authority which had thus diſtinguiſhed him: So it ſeems extremely probable, that his Majeſty Don Joſeph, tho' he continues to make Uſe of the ſame Title, will, in Time, cauſe the Succeſſors of St. Peter to repent that it was ever conferred on his Family. He already talks of deſtroying the Inquiſition, one of the moſt profitable Milch-Cows, but the moſt curſt of all the Herd, that is now in Poſſeſſion of the venerable Matron at Rome. At leaſt, it is agreed, that, if he does not utterly demoliſh her, he will entirely deprive her of her Horns, and all her Power of doing Miſchief.

The great Age of Henry Jenkins, by Mrs. Anne Saville.

WHEN I came firſt to live at Bolton, I was told ſeveral Particulars of the great Age of Henry Jenkins; but I believed little of the Story for many Years, 'til one Day he coming to beg Alms, I deſired him to tell me truly how old he was. He pauſed a little, and then ſaid, that to the beſt of his Remembrance, he was about 162 or 3; and I aſked what Kings he remembered? He ſaid Henry the Eighth. I aſked, what public Thing he could longeſt remember? He ſaid Flowden-field. I aſked, whether the King was there? He ſaid no, he was in France, and the Earl of Surrey was General. I aſked him, how old he might be then? He ſaid, I believe I might be between 10 and 12; for, ſays he, I was ſent to Northallerton with a Horſe load of Arrows, but they ſent a bigger Boy from thence to the Army with them. All this agreed with the Hiſtory of that Time; for Bows and Arrows were then uſed, the Earl he named was General, and King Henry the Eighth was then at Tournay, and yet it is obſervable, that this Jenkins could neither write nor read. There were alſo four or five in the ſame Pariſh that were reputed all of them to be 100 Years old, or within 2 or 3 Years of it, and they all ſaid he was an elderly Man, ever ſince they knew him; for he was born in another Pariſh, and before any Regiſters were in Churches, as it is ſaid; he told me then too, that he was Butler to the Lord Conyers, and remembered the Abbot of Fountains Abbey very well, before the Diſſolution of the Monaſteries. Henry Jenkins departed this Life, December, 1670, at Ellerton upon Swale in Yorkſhire; the Battle of Flowden-field was fought September, 9, 1513, and he was about 12 Years old, when Flowden-field was fought. So that this Henry Jenkins lived 169 Years, viz. 16 longer than old Parr, and was the oldeſt Man born upon the Ruins of this poſtdiluvian World. In the laſt Century of his Life he was a Fiſherman, and uſed to trade in the Streams; his Diet was coarſe and ſour, but towards the latter End of his Days he begged up and down. He hath ſworn in Chancery, and other Courts, to above 140 Years Memory, and was often at the Aſſizes at York, where he generally went on Foot: And I have heard ſome of the Country Gentlemen affirm, that he frequently ſwam in the Rivers after he was paſt the Age of 100 Years. In the King's Remembrancer's Office in the Exchequer, is a Record of a Depoſition in a Cauſe by Engliſh Bill, between Anthony Clark and Smirkſon, taken 1665, at Kettering in Yorkſhire, where Henry Jenkins, of Ellerton upon Swale, Labourer, aged 157 Years, was produced and depoſed as a Witneſs.

EPITAPH on a Monument erected at Bolton in Yorkſhire, by the Subſcription of ſeveral Gentlemen, to the Memory of Henry Jenkins.

Bluſh not, Marble,
To reſcue from Oblivion
The Memory of
Henry Jenkins,
A Perſon obſcure in Birth,
But of a Life truly memorable:
For
He was enriched
With the Goods of Nature,
If not of Fortune,
And happy
In the Duration,
If not Variety,
Of his Enjoyments!
And,
Tho' the partial World
Deſpiſed and diſregarded
His low and humble State,
The equal Eye of Providence
Beheld and bleſſed it,
With a Patriarch's Health and Length of Days;
To teach miſtaken Man
Theſe Bleſſings were entailed on Temperance,
A Life of Labour, and a Mind at Eaſe.
He lived to the amazing Age of 169.
Was interr'd here December 6,
1670,
And had this Juſtice done to his Memory,
1743.

STOCKHOLM, May 4.

THE Imperial and Ruſſian Miniſters being at Court a few Days ago, Count Teſſin aſſured the former, that the King thought himſelf under great Obligations to their Imperial Majeſties for employing their good Offices for maintaining the Tranquility of the North, and deſired they would continue them, that the Peace might ſubſiſt without Interruption. He alſo also assured the Russian Minister, that the King could not forget the Part which the Empress of Russia bore in the Choice that was made of his Majesty to succeed to the Throne of Sweden; that the Sentiments of Gratitude which he had imbibed upon that Occasion, would always be independent of all other Considerations; and that nothing could afford his Majesty greater Satisfaction, than to give her Imperial Majesty Proofs of the Sincerity of his Disposition, and of his Desire to contribute, as much as in him lies, to maintain the good Understanding which subsists between the two Courts. The Baron de Flemming, Minister from this Court at that of Denmark, is set out on his Return to Copenhagen. He is charged to confirm the Measures taken between the two Courts in relation to the intended Marriage of Prince Gustavus, the Prince Royal of Sweden, with the eldest Princess of Denmark.

Hague, May 4. We are assured, that there was a Passage in a certain Paper delivered the latter End of last Year, by Order of his Prussian Majesty, to the Count de Puebla, Minister from their Imperial Majesties at Berlin, in relation to the Election of a King of the Romans, which is very remarkable, and wherein it is advanced, "That their Imperial and Britannic Majesties had been soliciting and endeavouring to bring into their Measures most of the Electors; and that the Cadet of the Electoral College had made use of Means that were illicit, that were prohibited by the Golden Bull, and that were contrary to the Oath which it requires; in order to secure a Majority of Suffrages for the Candidate these Powers propose to be elected King of the Romans." Here are some People who think it was this Remark (so insulting to most of the Members of the Electoral College, whom it charges with being capable of selling their Vote, and to their Britannic and Imperial Majesties, whom it accuses of having corrupted them) which has determined the Elector of Cologne, to break his last Treaty of Subsidy with the Maritime Powers, to the End that he might not be suspected of Collusion, and of being corrupted. The same Consideration has hindered the Elector of Bavaria from entering into a Negotiation of the like Nature; but 'tis assured, that these two Princes are not less devoted to the Imperial Court, tho' they have rejected Treaties of Subsidy. But there are other People, who pretend to be better instructed in the Affairs of the Court of Bonn, who assure us, that the present Favourite and Prime Minister of the Elector, has been the Cause of his so abruptly breaking off his Negotiation with the Maritime Powers. This Minister is not rich, and every Body is intent upon making their Fortunes. Tho' the Abbe Goesbrian, the French Minister at Bonn, was never very favourably look'd upon at that Court, yet it was observed, that there was always an Intimacy between him and the Minister Favourite, who, 'tis said, has taken the Opportunity of breaking these Engagements, to get 160,000 Crowns from the Court of France, which it owed to the Elector. It is very probable, that too much Parsimony prevented the Count de Wartensleben from succeeding in his Negotiation.

Paris A la main, May 28. The Report of the Resignation of Marshal Noailles, and the Appointment of Marshal Belleisle to succeed him, is without Foundation, and was occasioned only by the Indisposition of the former, upon which Account he obtained his Majesty's Leave to absent himself from Council. The Parliament will go in a few Days to Marly, to make Representations to the King concerning the Twentieth Penny. There is a Talk of a Congress being to be held shortly at Toulon in relation to the Affairs of Corsica. An Order of Council has been issued for suppressing thirty six Writings against the Clergy, which have been published under different Titles, and without Permission; requiring all Persons who have Copies of them to send them to the Secretary of the Council, that they may be suppress'd effectually; and prohibiting the Sale of them upon Pain of being severely prosecuted.

LONDON, May 13.

An Extract of a Letter from Amsterdam, dated May 3.

"There has been much Talk, since the Peace, of the Endeavours which the Court of France is using, and the Efforts which it is making, to put its Marine into a respectable Condition. 'Tis true, that Court labours strenuously to accomplish this End, and, indeed, with some Success, but has yet done nothing near so much therein as has been published in most of the foreign News-Papers. Far from having eighty or a hundred Men of War actually in a Condition of being employed, we are assured, there are not in all the French Ports many more than Half that Number which are ready to put to Sea. 'Tis nevertheless true, that there are as many, and perhaps more, upon the Stocks, in the several Ports of the Kingdom, than will make up that Number; but the Superintendants in a great Measure content themselves with beginning the Construction of Ships, and leaving off after they have carried it on to a certain Point; but then, in such Manner, as to be able to finish them when the Circumstances of Affairs shall require it. In the mean Time, many Hands are employ'd, and much Diligence is used, in preparing Masts, Sails and Cordage, and considerable Quantities of all Sorts of Materials for building Ships, are collecting and laying up in the Arsenals and Magazines of France; insomuch that in a few Years that Nation will be in a Condition of putting several powerful Squadrons to Sea, of having a Number of Men of War in Reserve, with large Quantities of all Materials for building more. The French Court has appropriated an annual Fund for the Service of the Marine; the Surplus of which Fund, after having defrayed the Expence of building a sufficient Number of Ships, and laying in a Quantity of Materials for building more, will accumulate, and be always ready to be employed in Time of War in the Maintenance of Sailors, and other extraordinary Expences."

Extract of a Letter from Paris, May 21.

"The Inspectors of the Army are actually reviewing the Troops in their respective Departments all over the Kingdom, and are ordered to make them exercise according to the Method lately introduced; which Exercise takes up but the Third of the Time required of the old Method, and is performed with surprizing Agility and Dexterity. The Commissaries appointed by this Crown and the British Court to settle such Matters as could not be adjusted by the Negotiators at Aix-la-Chapelle, have not yet made any Progress in the Business: Some pretend they are stopped by a Dispute about the Prizes made on both Sides. The British Court refers, in this Case, to the Treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle, which mentions only the Prizes made after the Term stipulated for the Cessation of Hostilities; but our Court is for bringing into the Account all the Captures made before the Declaration of War between the two Crowns, as many French Ships were then taken by the English, under the Pretext that they had Spanish Treasure on board, or were carrying Provisions and Warlike Stores to the Port of Spain, &c.

Our last Advices from Ratisbon, insinuate, as if a certain great Court in Germany laboured to persuade that of Vienna, of its having no settled Intention to oppose the Election of the Arch Duke Joseph; but that on the Contrary, upon certain Conditions, favourable to the Constitution of the Empire, she is willing to give her Concurrence to that Measure, without any private Gratification of any Kind.

Our Correspondent at Paris assures us, that there is not only a Squadron equipping at Toulon, but that some Troops are in Motion in the Southern Provinces of France, whence it is apprehended, that a new Embarkation will be speedily made for Corsica.

NEW-YORK.

August 5. Capt. Fowle, who arrived here last Week from Goracoa, touch'd at Bermuda in his Way hither, and informs us, that whilst he was there, Capt. Appleton arrived there in a Sloop from Turks Island, and gave an Account, that a Spanish Privateer or Pyrate from St. Domingo, had lately taken there the following English Vessels, viz. Capt. Ja. Dickinson, Capt. R. Dickinson, and Capt. Chase, all Sloops from Bermuda; Capt. Shortes, in a Sloop from North-Carolina; Capt. Tucker, in a Brig from Barbadoes, bound for New-London, and Capt. Appleton from Antigua for Connecticut; which last ransom'd his Sloop for 500 Pieces of Eight. The Spaniards at first were in a Schooner, which they afterwards turn'd into a Sloop, and then made another Privateer of one of the Bermuda Sloops they took, to go in Concert with them: They endeavour'd to persuade those they took to go along, and enter'd all that would list, Whites or Blacks, of which last there were a good Number.
